Session One (time) 9.30-11am
Workshop Name	What's changed in the new Relationships and Sexuality Education Guide?	Jewels of the curriculum	Human Connection	OED
Presenter	Jenny Robertson NZHEA Jenny is an ITE educator in health education, PLD facilitator, resource developer and a member of the NZHEA executive.	Kylie Thompson Waikato University Amy Kaukau Rototuna Senior High School	Carl Condliffe Rongotai College Carl is a big proponent of flipped learning, gamification and play based learning, running workshops about these concepts all across the world.	Dan Popping Hamilton Boys High School
Blurb	The release of the revised MoE Relationships and Sexuality Education guide last term provides a useful framework for reviewing current sexuality education programmes. This workshop will include an overview of changes to the guide and a range of considerations for making curriculum and evidence-based decisions about what to teach and at which levels.	With the NCEA Review of Standards happening right now, many of you will be thinking about how this might impact your future programme development. This workshop will challenge an assessment driven approach to designing programmes in HPE and explore strategies for keeping the big ideas and curriculum 'jewels' front and centre. Amy will also share her experiences of planning with Threshold Concepts as the key driver for learning.	This workshop provides a variety of activities and games designed to emphasise whanaungatanga, manaaki and kotahitanga. Each game is highly engaging, simple to teach, and a lot of fun! Use them. In the classroom as in icebreaker to kick start your lessons, as a brain break to refresh your learners, nor working with other staff in department or staff meetings.	Outdoor education programmes can often be built around trips away to remote locations and adventure activities that the 'average joe' might never get a chance to participate in. But what about our own backyard? The stories etched in your local land? This workshop will explore the application of place responsive pedagogy and how we can use place to instil a deeper sense of personal identity and belonging for every student.

Session Two | (time) 11.30-1pm

Workshop Name	'Critical' (teaching) and learning in junior secondary Health Education	Learning through Projects	There's more than SPEECH	Wintec
Presenter	Rachael Dixon NZHEA and UC Rachael is co-chair of NZHEA and a lecturer in health sciences and health education at UC.	Anna Marie & Bridget Dick Rototuna Senior High School Anna-Marie is a founding staff member of Rototuna, while Bridget has embraced the kura for the past 2 years. Both are passionate about creating authentic and engaging learning experiences through the lens of HPE.	Susie Stevens ITE PE at University of Canterbury President of PENZ	Dani Waikato Institute of Technology
Blurb	Rachael will facilitate a group discussion focused on what we as a group view as 'critical' to cover in junior health programmes - in both senses of the word: Key learning in years 9&10, and enacting a (socio) critical approach to the subject at this level. Questions used in the session can be taken away to explore within your departments when planning or learning experiences in junior secondary Health Education.	This session will be focused on PBL (project based learning) and how this can be utilised to frame learning experiences. We will explore how learning can be authentically connected through meaningful contexts, and the links that can be made to the community to support these experiences.	Susie will be running a session on ways to practically unpack sociocultural concepts with your senior classes and get them thinking at a deeper level through movement encounters. This session will be entirely practical, no powerpoint presentation and will use minimal equipment. The environment and play spaces around us. The activities will not be strenuous, but come dressed ready to move	Come get some tricks and tips of how to get students moving safely and efficiently in the gym space. Dani will go through some fundamental movements eg squat and lunge and cues you can use to help support students technique to minimise risk and injury occurring in the classroom
Venue	Te Pitau	Huakatoa	Peak	Weights Room

Session Three | (time) 1.45-3.15pm

Workshop Name	Using Pacific ideas in Health Education	Integration in Action	Speed date your HPE programmes	Cultural Games
	Kata O'Donnell NZHEA Tamaki College	Philly & Bec Rototuna Senior High School Philly and Bec have been on the Rototuna Waka for the past 2 years. Experienced kaiako in the Health & Visual Arts learning areas both have a passion for creating personalized learning opportunities.	Carl Hudson & Kylie Thompson Cambridge High School Waikato University	AnnMarie & Kendall Rototuna Junior High School
Blurb		This session is a Live Learning Experience that will look at growing connected learning across Curriculum areas to authentic 'real-world' contexts. Exploration of learning being linked to key concepts, skills and jewels of the curriculum.	Looking for inspiration and keen to learn from each other? This workshop provides the opportunity to come together and have a chat about your HPE programmes with fellow delegates. Carl and Kylie are keen to provide a supportive space to share both the wins and challenges when it comes to unit plans, learning activities and assessments. Come along with your course overviews to ako the diverse programmes we all offer and you might just take away a gem or two to explore back at your own school.	Come learn cultural perspectives in a practical context through cultural games. You will experience first hand some of our smaller traditional Māori games as well as some from other countries that you could teach as part of your programme. Bring a couple from your team so you can divide and conquer to experience more. We will also provide you with a resource you could use to help you assess this unit of work.
